AN ALL NIGHT SESSION.

HOW SLEEPY SENATORS PASSED THE TIME.

Fillibustering in the Senate Scenes During the Deadlock--Fatiguing the Indignation.

From the Philadelphia Times

WASHINGTON, November 27.—The old formula, so common in Washington last spring, that eight beats seven, was changed to-day. The roll-call on the Butler case to-day shows that twenty-nine beats twenty-seven and the Republicans in the Senate are correspondingly unhappy. The Senate sat all night—at least the journals of that body will so declare, but the fact is that it only sat in name. The night was occupied in an effort on the part of the Republicans to kill time. Every device was made use of to this end. The roll was called fifty-two times. There were several calls of the Senate, and old documents were read over and will be printed in the record at the public expense. The Senators were quite jolly and cracked all manner of jokes. John Barleycorn was apparent in some instances. Nearly all the Senators unbent. Edmunds laughed and joked with the severest of his opponents. Eaton, of Connecticut, told funny stories to a crowd of Senators all night long. Jones, of Nevada, smoked all night, and Bruce, the colored Senator, went to sleep on one of the sofas in the Chamber and snored like a fog horn. Even Don Cameron's cold nature was thawed out, and he made himself quite agreeable to his associates. Judge Davis, who weighs nearly four hundred pounds, rolled around the chamber like a hoghead in the sea, and Mitchell slept peacefully in his seat. So did Burnside. Wallace, always serviceable to his party, acted as the whip last night, and brought Democratic Senators from their retreats whenever a roll was called. He also watched the other side very closely to see that no trap was sprung. Taken altogether, it was rather a jolly time. The only sad thing about it was the accident to Senator Ransom, of North Carolina. He made a very angry and heated reply to the remarks of Mr. Hoar, and when the latter rose to reply Ransom fell from his seat and fainted. The exertion had been too much for him. He was borne from the chamber amid some excitement, and is confined to his bed to-day. It was feared he had been stricken with paralysis, but the doctors say it is some disease of the heart.

The Senate at noon to-day did not present an agreeable spectacle. The floor was covered with litter and papers. The Senators were cross and untidy, the pages were tired out, the clerks hoarse, and the atmosphere was stifling. A number of colored men had found sleeping accommodations in the galleries, and the good feeling that prevailed during the night had vanished. At 3 o'clock this afternoon, after a continuous session of twenty-seven hours, the deadlock was broken. Cameron, of Wisconsin, was the last speaker. When he closed a vote was taken on an amendment and the Democrats carried their point and beat the resolution, which was unimportant. Then the question came on the passage of the Thurman resolution to discharge the committee from the Butler case, which practically sets the latter. Every Senator was in his seat. Some had red eyes from long watching, and some from other causes, but all were worn out and disagreeable. Of course the resolution was carried, the vote being twenty-nine to twenty-seven, which might have been foreseen from the first. Thurman then moved to admit Butler to a seat, but the motion went over a day. The case as it now stands is whether Kellogg comes up first or Butler first.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermitting Fever, Chills, Malaria, Biliousness, Headache, Stomach and Bowel Complaints, and all the various ailments which arise from malarious and marshy localities, or from the use of impure water.

This is a compound remedy, prepared with genuine skill from vegetable ingredients, which rarely fails to cure the severe cases of Chills and Fever and the constant diarrhoea. Such a remedy is necessary in the tropics and malarious districts, and is the only one that can be relied upon for the cure of intermittents, as it contains no quinine or mineral, and those who take it are free from danger of quinine or any injurious effects, and are as healthy after using it as before. It has been extensively employed during the last thirty years in the treatment of these distressing disorders, and so universal has been its success that it has gained the reputation of being infallible. It can, therefore, be safely recommended as a sure remedy and specific for the Ague and Fever of the West, and the Chills and Fever of the South. It counteracts the malarious poison in the blood, and frees the system from its influence, so that fever and ague, shivers or chills, once broken up by it, do not return until the disease is again contracted.

The great variety of disorders which arise from the irritation of this poison, such as Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Dropsy, Toothache, Earache, Catarrh, Asthma, Indigestion, Spasmodic Affections, Hysterics, Pain in the Bowels, Colic, Dysentery, and derangement of the Stomach, all of which become intermittent or periodic, have responded readily to this remedy. Ayer's Cure, which cures them all alike, and protects them from future attacks. As a preventive, it is of immense service in those countries where Fever and Ague prevails, as it stays the development of the disease if taken on the first approach of the malarious vapors. Thus enabled to defy these disorders, and free will ever render it their avowed champion of the protection this remedy affords.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity, it is an excellent remedy; it stimulates this organ into healthy activity, and produces many remarkable cures where other medicines fail.

SUMMITT's Hepatic Compound is all vegetable, perfectly harmless, and wonderfully effective. It can be used at all times and at all ages, and does not interfere with one's daily pursuits, but, on the contrary, enables us to pursue them with renewed vigor. It is a simple, better and cheaper remedy than any similar preparation ever offered.

Summitt's Hepatic Compound, OR LIVER CURE, should be preferred as a corrective and alternative to every other medicine in use. Firstly, it allays fever; secondly, it cleanses the bowels without violence or pain; thirdly, it tones the stomach; fourthly, it regulates the flow of bile; fifthly, it promotes healthy perspiration; sixthly, it relieves the system from unwholesome humors; seventhly, it invigorates the nervous system; eighthly, it purifies the blood as a dependent and lastly, it forms one of the most certain Liver Regulators known.
